

Instead of preempting Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law in favor of a lower national standard, I propose that more stringent restrictions be imposed. Telemarketers should be prohibited from using RANDOM DIALING. I have two independent telephone lines; one is published (219-762-6334) and the other is unlisted (219-762-7163). Before Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law my published number was inundated with calls from telemarketers. Now I get ZERO calls; however, now telemarketers frequently are using RANDOM DIALING to access my unlisted number. I propose that you prohibit telemarketers from using RANDOM DIALING whether from line phones or mobile and cell phones.
